

LOOKING AT HEART FAILURE

Satellite Conference and Live Webcast

Friday, May 17, 2013, 9:00-11:00 a.m. (Central Time)

10:00 a.m.-12:00 p.m. (Eastern) ■ 8:00-10:00 a.m. (Mountain) ■ 7:00-9:00 a.m. (Pacific)

FACULTY:

Melanie Rightmyer, MSN, RN

Program Director

Cardiovascular Health Unit

Chronic Disease Programs Branch

Bureau of Health Promotion and Chronic Disease

Alabama Department of Public Health

PROGRAM OBJECTIVES:

1. Define three types of heart failure.
2. Verbalize two changes of a normal heart during heart failure.
3. Identify two co-morbidities with heart failure.
4. Identify two signs and symptoms of heart failure.
5. Recognize three characteristics related to physical changes for documentation.
6. Verbalize three of seven lifestyle changes.

Millions of Americans suffer from heart failure. Though the term sounds frightening, the actual condition, while serious, simply means the heart isn't pumping blood through the body efficiently. If the signs of heart failure are recognized early enough, a proper treatment regimen can be put in place to help improve the prognosis in acute events and reduce effects the condition has on other parts of the body. Program faculty will discuss heart failure and the signs and symptoms to be aware of in your home care patients.
