Program Objectives:

1. Define diabetes.
2. Describe three symptoms of diabetes.
3. Describe three foods that are healthy for the diabetic patient.
4. Identify three potential skin problems with the diabetic patient.
5. List two other health problems that can result from diabetes.

Helping your patients live well at home with diabetes means helping them understand how to manage, control, and treat the condition. When patients fail to properly care for their diabetes the consequences can be detrimental to their overall health. Program faculty will discuss ways you can help patients better understand and treat their condition by defining diabetes for you, discussing healthy eating habits, and showing side-effects to be aware of.
